Treasures from our Tradition

The origins of today's solemnity lie in thirteenth-century Belgium. In those days, people seldom received Holy Communion, and never from the chalice. A nun in a troubled convent, Juliana of Liège, devoted her life to stirring up love for the Eucharist, lobbying for a feast day to honor the Blessed Sacrament with Masses and processions.

Juliana may have been inspired by the Ascension Day processions in nearby Bruges. Crusaders brought a treasure home to Bruges from Constantinople in 1204: a reliquary said to contain a cloth from Joseph of Arimathea with which he had helped prepare the body of Jesus for burial. The stain on the cloth was said to be the holy blood itself, and so the people of Bruges built a great basilica to house the relic. Bruges became a great center of pilgrimage because of this treasure, and the procession of the Holy Blood is still one of the greatest festivals in Belgium today. The bishop carries the relic through the narrow streets, and the people wear medieval costumes and act out scenes from the Bible.

Catholic Trivia

At what point in a priestly ordination does a man become a priest?

What Sacraments can a deacon administer?
The answers will be here next week.

The Knights' Corner

We had a very successful meet and greet for new parishioners in the Habitat yard on 17th of April. This tradition was started at Little Flower church in an effort to let the men and women of our parish get a glimpse of some of the work that our Knights of Columbus do for the parish. We also had our State Convention this month at the Perdido Beach resort and reviewed some of our accomplishments over the past year. We were honored to have Archbishop Rodi as well as Bishop Baker from Birmingham in attendance. We discussed the changes coming to our organization in the hope of developing better ways to reach the younger people of our parishes. They have rolled out an E-Membership initiative specifically targeting the more computer literate of our society. John Pollman was recognized as one of the youngest 4th degree knights in the state and as an example of the Knights of the future. He was part of the Honor Guard that presented the Colors for the convention.

We have started another project building a deck on the back of the Bringer center and hope to complete it soon. We still meet on Thursday nights in the Bringer center hoping to meet new parishioners interested in joining our ranks. Come by and meet the Knights.
